Courier Rates All-American

Additional honors were bestowed on the Courier when it was rated All-American by Gareth Hiebert, judge of college papers in the 47th Associated Collegiate Press critical

The rating was based on the issues for the second semester of 1951-52, edited by Mary Fran O'Byrne. The Courier was one of five papers in its classification to receive the highest rating of the ACP.

In the overall comment on the Courier the judge wrote: "A readable, accurate cross-section of life at Clarke college."

The same issues of the Courier recently rated the top "Newspaper of Distinction" citation in the survey conducted by the Catholic School Press association.

Student Wew Participate Fully In Mass Remember Your Offering

Do you ever go to a movie and forget your ticket money? Not very often.

Do you ever go to Chapel on Sunday and forget your little white envelope? Yes, quite often.

The Offertory of the Mass signifies our participation with the priest in of. fering to God the sacrifice on Calvary, It is a momentous occasion when we, the members of the Mystical Body, prepare ourselves to become one with Him. In order to do this, we must first become sacrifice-minded."

We give our offering to the priest who is our representative in giving it to God, We offer with the priest because we want to share in the fruits of the Mass, It is the priest who supplies the Host but Patricia Spaight the Host is also our own offering, our love and our hearts gratefully and humbly offered to God.

Early Christians Brought Gifts

Long ago the early Christians brought wine and bread, grapes, com and other gifts to be used for sacrifice on the altar. Often, the faithful wished what was left over to serve as a means of support for the priest and help for the poor. Whether their gift was placed on the Divine altar or in a poverty-stricken home, the faithful felt assured that their offerings became the Body and Blood of Christ.

About the eleventh century when unleavened bread was introduced in Rome, gifts of money replaced baskets of food. This money was a stipend for the Mass and a contribution to Church needs. It is important that Catholics should grasp the full import of the liturgical collec-

College Students Rate A Plus In Predicting New President

"As collegians go, so goes the nation" to paraphrase the familiar Maine claim.

An Associated College Press student opinion poll this fall predicted Eisenhower's victory, ranking him 24 per cent above his opponent. In a straw vote last April Clarkites showed a similar preference for Ike. He collected 22 more votes than the highest Democrat, Douglas. Not one ballot went to Stevenson, but that's understandable. He wasn't in the running at that time.

A student polled by ACP said, "It takes a military man to clean up the mess we're in," an opinion evidently shared by the nation. Pro-Stevenson collegians believed the White House wasn't the place for a soldier.

Despite Eisenhower's popularity, there are almost as many Democrats as Republicans among collegians. Thirty-two per cent of those polled claim to be Democrats, 36 per cent Republicans and 30 per cent Independent voters.

Clarke Is Host To NFCCS Group At Regional Meet

Clarkites will have a chance to see the NFCCS in action this year. Both the student government committee and the press commission will hold their regional meetings here at Clarke on Nov. 23. Dorothy Culhane is in charge of student government, and Ann O'Hara, regional press chairman, will direct the press meeting.

Loras will be host for two meetings this year. The Mariology and Liturgy commission will meet on Dec. 6, and the regional executive council meeting is scheduled for Saturday, Jan. Clarke's delegates for this meeting will include Marjorie Costello, Mary Murphy, Ann O'Hara and Mary Jo Howerter.

On Dec. 13 Marycrest college in Davenport will host the group discussing Catholic Action.
